

Dos and Don'ts of Machine Learning in Computer Security

Machine learning has become an increasingly useful and powerful tool for computer security. This paper has an outstanding exploration of the challenges and pitfalls of using machine learning in computer security. As such, it helps the field establish a more scientific approach towards use of machine learning in computer security and towards rigorous evaluation of these approaches.